DEFINITION

A VETERINARY STATUTORY BODY (VSB) means an autonomous, regulatory body for veterinarians and veterinary para-professionals

The veterinary statutory body should be able to demonstrate that it has the capacity, supported by appropriate legislation, to exercise and enforce control over all veterinarians and veterinary para-professionals subject to its authority. These controls should include, where appropriate, compulsory licensing or registration, participation in the definition of minimum standards of education (initial and continuing) for the recognition of degrees, diplomas and certificates by the Competent Authority, setting standards of professional conduct and competence, investigating complaints and the application of disciplinary procedures

COMPLIANCE

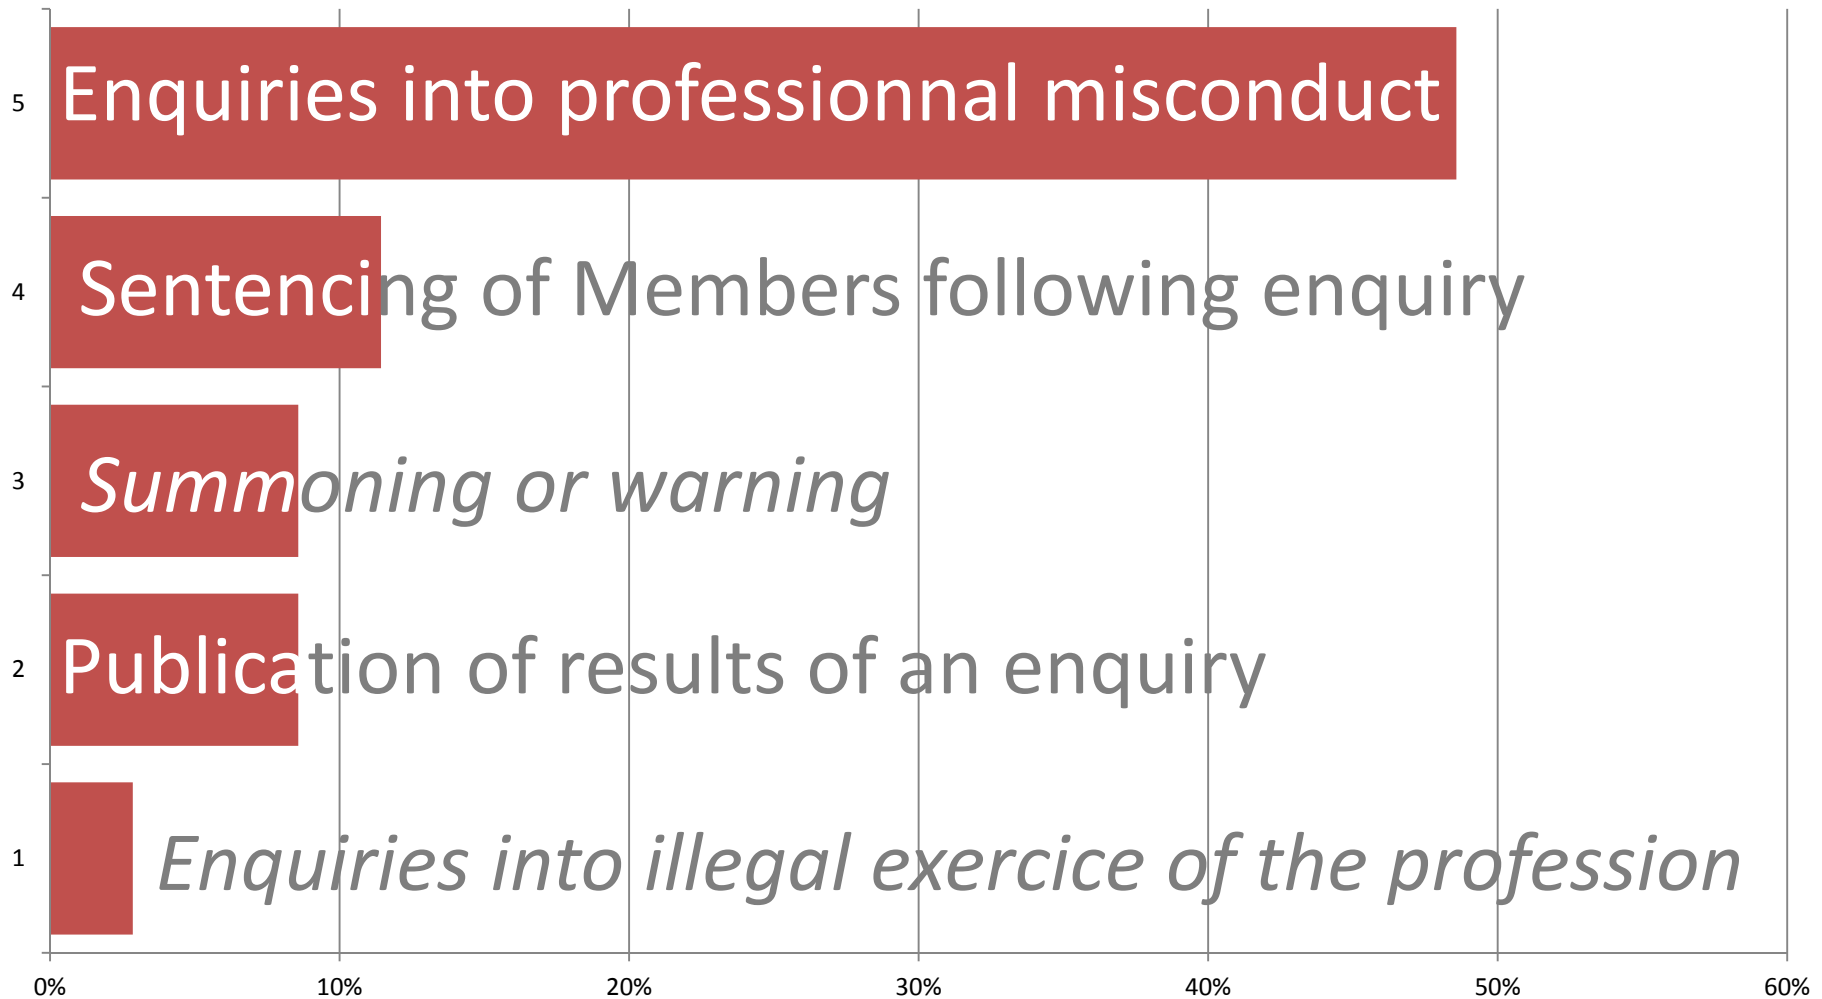

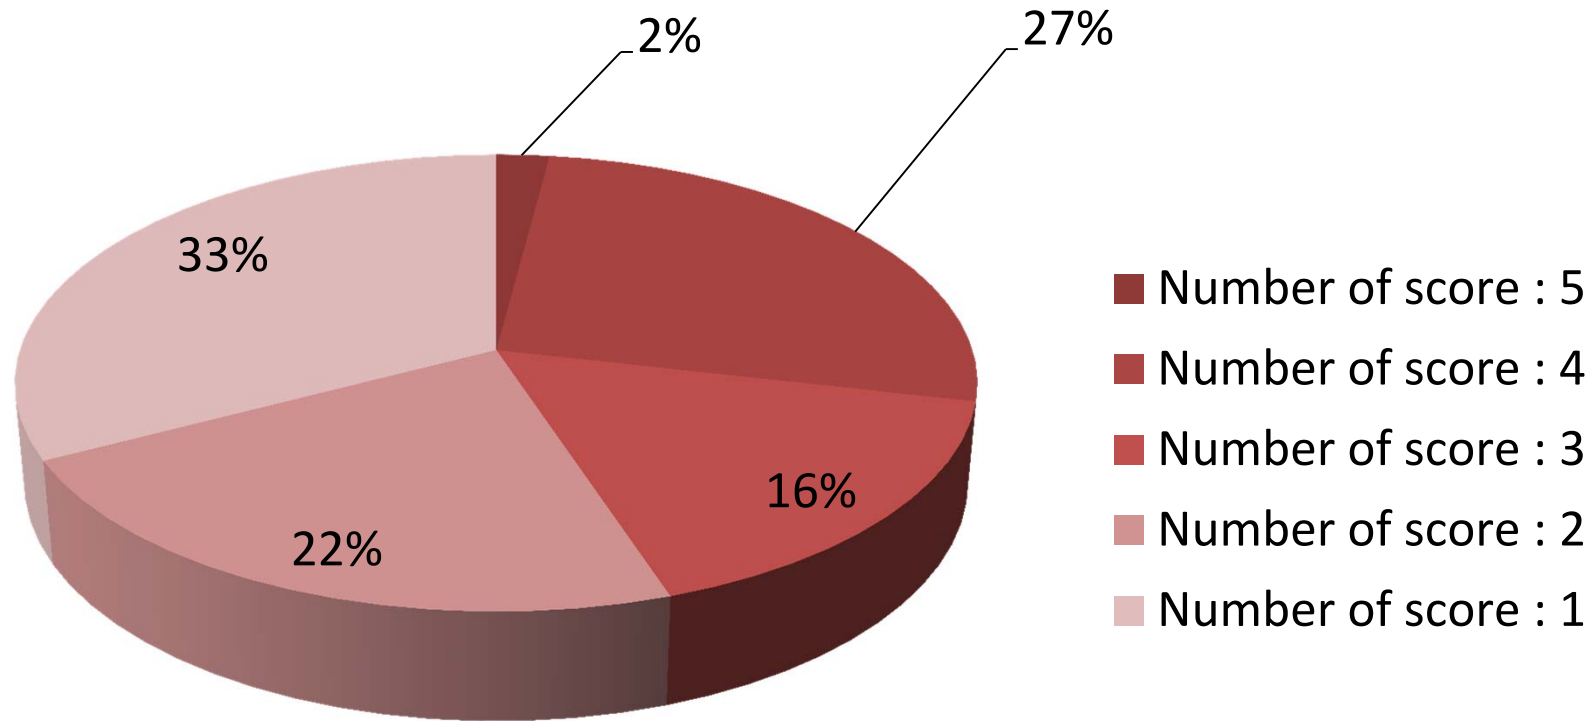

- Elected by the Members of the VSB
- Appointed by the Minister
- Automatically the Director of Veterinary Services

DISCUSSION

- Compliance of the VSBs with OIE standards is low (43%)
- Annual budgets may vary from USD 75 – 800,000 (independence ?)

DISCUSSION

- Line Ministries play a passive to active role (independence ?)

- Compliance of the VSBs with OIE standards is low (43%)

- Line Ministries play a passive to active role (independence ?)
- Countries with no VSB :
delays in adopting legislation
- Little cross-border or regional cooperation or harmonisation

IN CONCLUSION

IN CONCLUSION

- Scarcity of resources,
- Veterinary profession largely dominated by the public services
- Low awareness of stakeholders

Functional VSB's require the rule of law, democracy and the strict separation of the three powers of the State.

IN CONCLUSION

- Continue raising general awareness of requirements for good governance of the veterinary services,
- Establish VSB's in countries that have not yet done so,
- Improve compliance with OIE standards in other countries
- Improve linkages between VSBs and VEEs in order to strengthen the grip of VSBs on the supply and demand.

IN CONCLUSION

- Regional coordination and harmonisation is critical
- Continental oversight ?
- Learn from what VEEs are doing
- Engage in twinning of VSBs
